WILSON DECLARES AMERICA MUST STAND ON 14 POINTS AND REFUSE ITALY'S CLAIM

ITALIAN DELEGATE SAYS
ITALY WILL QUIT CONFERENCE

By CARL D. GROAT

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, April 23—"President Wilson's statement has broken up the peace conference," a member of the Italian delegation declared this afternoon.

The delegate said that Premier Orlando will leave for Rome tonight or on Friday and that the remainder of the delegates will go as quickly as possible thereafter. Orlando declined to comment on the President's statement beyond intimating that his removal might take the form of some definite action. This was interpreted as meaning possible withdrawal.

NO SPECIAL RULES FOR THE BALKAN SITUATION

UNDER ALTRUISTIC PRINCIPLES THE CITY OF FIUME MUST BE MADE AVAILABLE TO SMALL NATIONS

LATINS THREATEN SEPARATE PEACE

By FRED S. FERGUSON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, April 23—President Wilson issued a statement this afternoon declaring that America must stand by the principles it has already enunciated in making its decision regarding Italy's claims.

"A new set of principles cannot be established for the Balkans," he said. The President held that Fiume cannot be given but must be made available as a sea port for the small states behind her.

Wilson pointed out that conditions existing at the time the treaty of London was signed in 1915 have been altered by the dissolution of Austria-Hungary and the establishment of the new Balkan states. He insisted the peace conference must apply the principles established in the armistice. If those principles are to be adhered to Fiume must serve as an outlet for all the nations, Hungary, Bohemia, Roumania, Czechoslovakia and the status of the new Hugo-Slavia group.

"To assign Fiume to Italy would be to create a feeling that we had deliberately put the port upon which these countries chiefly depend for access to the Mediterranean in the hands of a government of which these nations do not feel an integral part and whose sovereignty would seem foreign rather than domestic." The President concluded by pointing out that the feeling of aggression existing at the time of the "Pact of London" signing is no longer dominating.

The dead lock in the Italian situation was declared by some delegates today to be worse than ever since the conference between Premier Lloyd George and Premier Orlando last night. The Italians are now intimating they will begin conversation with the Germans looking toward a separate peace. They indicate they expect to obtain coal from Germany and food from the Ukrainians instead of from Great Britain and America.

PARIS, April 23—The Italians, encountering continued opposition from the Allies to their annexation program, were reported today to have threatened consummation of a separate peace with Germany. When Italy recently presented the virtual ultimatum it was hinted that if she actually broke up the peace conference the Allies would cut off her credit, food and fuel. The Italians have not met this implied threat by indicating that instead of depending upon Great Britain and America for supplies they will get coal from Germany and food from Ukraine.

TAKE STINGER OUT OF ALLIANCE BEE

(By United Press)

PARIS, April 23—While the peace delegates professed to disbelieve the existence of the reported Russo-German alliance, it was learned today the military terms of the treaty have been amended so as to prevent Germany from sending military instructors to other countries. This was expected to forestall any such entente as reported recently by the Warsaw correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph.

WRIGLEY-LYTLE NUPTIALS SOCIETY
EVENT OF INTEREST LAST EVENING

The home of Mr and Mrs. John W. Wrigley, on Front street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding last evening when their daughter Margaret Weber was united in marriage with Mr. Thomas Reilly Lytle. The ceremony was performed at 6:30 o'clock by Rev. M. A. Ryan of St. Francis church in the presence of more than two hundred friends of the high contracting parties.

As a prelude to the ceremony Mrs. Fairfax Funsten sang "Oh, Perfect Love." She was accompanied on the violin by Miss Annie Fenwick Wrigley, of Renovo, cousin of the bride.

The wedding party entered the parlor to the pretty strains of "Lohengrin's wedding march" as rendered on the piano by Miss Martha Hames.

Eight friends of the bride, Misses Helen Dufton, Margaret Smith, Gertrude Bell, Helen Lytle, Josephine Tonner, Julia Miller, Agnes Fulford and Ethel Boyce formed an "aisle of tulle" for the bridal party.

The bride who was given away by her father, was attired in a white satin gown, embroidered in pearls, with a long court train falling from the shoulders. Her veil was a crown of rose point lace beaded in pearls and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids.

The bridesmaids were Miss Rebecca Smith, cousin of the bride, and Miss Valeria Clymer, of Riegelsville. Their dresses were of pink tulle and silver lace. They wore pink tulle bonnets with silver streamers and carried bouquets of roses.

The Matron of Honor, Mrs. Fairfax

Funsten of New York City, was attired in a beautiful gown of pink velvet and silver lace. She carried a bouquet of roses and snap dragons.

Mrs. John W. Wrigley, mother of the bride was attired in a beautiful gown of black satin, trimmed with white lace.

The best man was James Lytle, brother of the groom, while the groomsmen were William W. Wrigley, brother of the bride, John A. Lytle, brother of the groom, and H. O. Huttie, of Scottsdale, Pa.

The palatial Wrigley home was handsomely decorated in ferns, palms and lilies.

The gifts to the bridesmaids from the bride were pink ostrich fans.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a sumptuous wedding supper was served, after which the bridal party left in automobiles for Tyrone where they took a main line train for Atlantic City, where they will spend their honeymoon.

The happy couple are among Clearfield's best known and popular young people. The bride, the only daughter of Mr and Mrs. Wrigley, is a charming and highly accomplished young lady possessing all the graces requisite to the ideal wife. Her husband is the senior member of the firm of Lytle Brothers, and one of Clearfield's most successful young business men. They start out in life with the brightest of prospects and The Progress joins with their legion of warm friends in wishing them health, wealth and the happiness of a long life together.

The friends of Sergeant Ralph A. Whiteman, who had such a narrow escape in the closing days of the war when in taking a German machine gun he received three bullets through his clothing and had a high explosive shell strike within a few feet of him without receiving any injury will be pleased to hear that his bravery in battle has been officially recognized in the War department by the following citation:

TREATY TERMS BEING IRONED OUT SO AS TO BE READY ON TIME BUT HUNG WILL BE LATE ARRIVING

PREPARE FOR POSSIBLE TRICKERY

By WILLIAM PHILLIP SIMMS

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, April 23—The drafting committee is racing against time in an effort to complete the peace treaty before the German delegates arrive in Versailles. Several new members have been added to the committee. The conference is proceeding on the assumption that the Germans will arrive in Versailles on Saturday, April 26, although the latest reports indicated the delay caused by the change in the personnel of the delegation. The result in the enemy representatives arriving not sooner than April 26. The German government today asked the Allies for permission to send three delegates to Versailles immediately to prepare quarters for the entire body. The impression is growing that the conference has reached a point where the Allies must be against an attempt by the Germans at the eleventh hour to d'etat calculating to meet the Allies' arrangements. Plans have been completed however, to meet any contingency.

A SCARE-CROW DOES NOT GROW CORN BUT SAVES A LOT OF IT

It wasn't alone the boys that had gone across but the boys who were ready to go across, that won the war.

It wasn't simply the guns that were fired, the grenades that were exploded, and the gas that was let loose, but the doses we were preparing that licked the Boche.

The ships never launched, the planes that never flew, the guns on our docks, the wheat in the ground—helped to win.

Let's call it money well spent, bring the boys home, and pay the bill. You know what your share is in the Victory Loan—TAKE IT!

PROCLAMATION

Clearfield, Pa., April 23, 1919
WHEREAS, our soldiers, sailors and marines have been prevailed upon to parade in uniform on our streets on the evening of Friday April 25th, in the interest of the Victory Loan.

AND WHEREAS, this will make an opportunity for our people to do honor to our returned men and the same time aid the great cause for which they will march.

I therefore recommend and urge the people of Clearfield to come out along the line of march to view the procession, and that all residences and business houses particularly on the line of parade, be decorated with flags and bunting, and that all traffic be kept off the streets from 7 to 8 o'clock.

The line of march will be as follows: Form on South Second street, corner of Walnut, march north on Second to Market, east on Market to Third, north on Third to Reed, west on Reed to Second south on Second to Market, east on Market and to the New Driggs Theatre.

SOLDIER PEDDLERS

We understand that some Washington War Department officials are trying to discourage peddling and street selling by men in uniform. Just what methods they are using is not made clear but it is not likely that it carries with it an effort to put these men back into their jobs or even back into productive labor of any kind. There are too many instances where there is nothing left for the discharged soldier but a street soliciting job. Meanwhile someone less worthy is holding the job the soldier ought to have. Possibly these injustices to the soldier are few and far between and are magnified by their very rarity. Nevertheless, one case is sufficient and it behooves everyone of us to take care of the returned soldier. He does not want praise, he does not want favor; he does not want anything in particular: we have not heard him complain, but he deserves employment at as good a job as he left.

In finding work for the returning soldiers consideration must be given to the character of their employment before they entered the army. Secretary Lane is entitled to credit for evolving his scheme of providing farm homes for the men on the unsettled lands of the West and South, but although the object he has in mind is a most worthy one it can scarcely be the success he predicts if it is adopted. Men who have spent their lives in cities are not going to forsake their old habits and acquaintances to move to the country. Nothing has occurred to them in their army life tending to change their normal method of living; on the contrary, the longer they have remained abroad the greater has been their longing for home. Whatever may have been a soldier's craving for adventure before the war it has been thoroughly satisfied by his life at the front and he thinks only of coming back to the familiar scenes of his earlier life.

THE VICTORY LIBERTY LOAN

The fighting is over, but the job isn't finished yet.

Our Army is in Germany keeping "The Watch on the Rhine."

They must be cared for there and brought back home.

We must furnish the money.

Buy Victory Liberty Bonds as a patriotic service, buy them as an act of simple justice to Your Boy "Over There" or buy them as an investment.

But whatever the reason, BUY all you can.

The campaign begins April 21st.

EIGHT-ROOM HOUSE OF MODERN DESIGN

Provides Plenty of Room With All Conveniences.

NOOKS ADD TO ITS COMFORT

Den, Breakfast Room and Sun Parlor
Features of This Economical Home of Wood Construction.

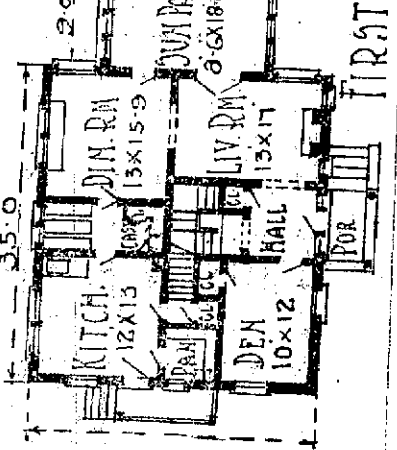

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building. For the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority in all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 122 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose three-cent stamp for reply.

Houses that are designed so that the builder will get the most for his money in number of rooms, convenience and arrangement and attractive exterior appearance are the kind that appeal to the prospective home owners this year. The features enumerated, are, of course, what every one wants to get when a house is planned, but many do not get them. However, architects who design houses of moderate cost for what might be termed the average American family have developed many features that help in attaining the ideal in dwelling construction.

An eight-room house, which contains many attractive features in interior arrangement and which can be erected at a moderate cost is shown in the accompanying illustration. The house is nearly square, which makes for economy in cost, but at the same time the sun parlor and side entrance break the straight lines and give it an attractive, comfortable and home-like appearance. The illustration shows this design in wood construction, but the house can be produced just as easily in brick and stucco. An alternate plan would show it with brick up to the second floor and stucco above. This is slightly more expensive than wood construction, but gives the house a distinctive appearance.

appreciated by the woman who likes unusual conveniences. It will be noted that the architect has put in a breakfast nook on one side and a large dining and living room on the other.

Breakfast Room, Convenient.

The breakfast nook is 5 feet 9 inches in width and has built-in seats and tables. Being but a step from the kitchen, this provides a convenient place for the children and other members of the family to have their breakfasts, without the trouble of setting the dining room table. The large living and dining room places the dishes and table linen also at hand.

The kitchen is large and is designed for the installation of every convenience that makes the work easy in Large Sun Parlor Feature.

The floor plans show the arrangement of the rooms on the first and second floors. The entrance, located at the side so as to give the front over to the large sun parlor, opens into a reception hall of good size. The stairs leading to the second floor rise out of the hall and beside the stairs is a closet for outer clothing. To the right of the entrance is the living room and to the left a den.

The placing of the living room and dining room side by side across the front of the house, with the sun parlor opening off of both rooms is an attractive feature of this design. The living room is 13 by 17 feet. At one end is a fireplace with bookcases on either side and small windows above them. Double doors open into the sun parlor and a line opening leads to the dining room.

The sun parlor is unusually large, being 18 feet 6 inches wide and 8 feet 6 inches in depth. Continuous windows on three sides make it a room that will be greatly used, especially in the the woman's workshop. The size of the room is 13 feet 9 inches by 12 feet 9 inches. At one side there is a closet and the opening to the basement stairway, while at the rear is a large pantry, where provision is made for the ice box so that it can be fed from the rear porch. The sink, stove and work table all are placed so that the work may be performed with the least number of steps.

What will appeal to the head of the household is the den off the reception hall. This room is 11 feet 3 inches by 12 feet 9 inches, a size which will accommodate comfortable chairs, bookcases and the tables that make such a room attractive. Windows on two sides permit plenty of light, but at the same time there is plenty of wall space for the bookcases. There also is a large closet off this room.

Much Closet Space Provided.

Four bedrooms, each at a corner of the house, giving excellent ventilation, the bathroom, large enough for both tub and shower, and a nook at the head of the stairs are provided in the second floor. An exceptionally large amount of closet space also is given. The two front bedrooms are 13 feet 9 inches by 14 feet 3 inches and the two rear bedrooms are 12 feet 9 inches by 12 feet 9 inches. Each opens off a large hall in the center of the house. The bath room is at one end of the hall and the nook, with built-in seats is at the other end. There is a closet in every room and an additional one off the hall.

The basement extends under the whole house and may be divided into as many rooms as the owner wants. The heating plant, especially, should be shut into a room of its own, to prevent heating the place used for the storage of food and to keep the dirt confined.

Building a home is a popular occupation this year. Thousands of persons, who during the last two years have been unable to build because of restrictions on building, are now planning to go ahead with their projects, and before fall arrives many will have their desire for a home of their own realized. For the family that is comparatively large and wants an attractive and convenient home, the plan submitted is excellent. Builders are competent to make such little changes in the design as the owner may want, but it always is a good idea to consult an architect. The small fee these experts charge is saved many times over in a house that is at all elaborate.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside, no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood while the bowel pores do, says a well known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless except a sourish tinge, which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins, also to prevent their formation.

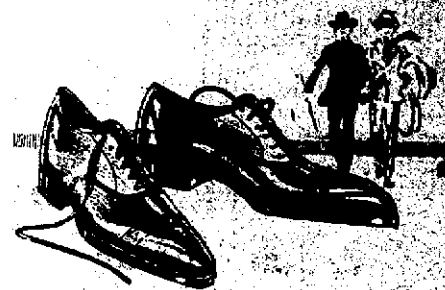

you feel like young folks feel; like you feel before your blood, nerves and muscles become saturated with an accumulation of body poisons. Begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Choose what you will, within the limits of reason, and by exercise of the average ability you possess you will in time reach your mark.—Marden.

SAVORY DISHES.

In all meat dishes the long slow cooking brings out all the flavor of the meat and makes it tender and more easily digested. Cooking in an earthen covered dish, called a casserole, is an ideal way of conserving flavor. The meat with vegetables may be put on to cook and in a moderate oven may be left for hours without any further attention. The crook may be set in the coals of a fireplace, in the ashpit under the heater or on the ledge of the furnace to cook.

Casserole of Lamb.—Take one and one-half pounds of the neck of lamb, wipe with a damp cloth and place in a casserole with two sliced carrots, six medium sized onions, three turnips cut in half, bouquet of soup herbs, one and one-half cups of water; cook for four hours, add dumplings and cook over the heat for ten minutes and serve.

Fried Apples.—Wash and core unpeeled apples and cook in a hot frying pan in a little sweet fat, when nearly done sprinkle with sugar and brown. Leaving the peeling on keeps the slices from breaking. Serve as a garnish to a platter of pork chops or sausage.

Puffy Crackers.—Split the Boston crackers and let them lie in ice water three or four minutes; they will be so water soaked that it will be necessary to use a pancake turner to remove them to a baking pan. Dot with bits of butter and put into a very hot oven; they will puff up and become crisp and delicious. If they are to be served with soup a little paprika may be sprinkled over them, or a little grated cheese.

Baked Egg Plant.—Dice and cut a small egg plant into dice, sprinkle with salt and let stand in a colander for one hour, then wash. Parboil until tender, drain and place in a bowl. Into a chopping bowl put two onions, one green pepper, four stalks of celery, two sprays of parsley and a bunch of thyme. Mince very fine and add two cups of cream sauce, one-half cup of bread crumbs and one and one-half teaspoons of salt, one teaspoonful of paprika and one-quarter of a teaspoon of mustard. Mix thoroughly and pour into a baking dish, cover with crumbs and cheese and bake thirty minutes.

Nellie Maxwell

She Washed Her Hair.

A Minnie grandmother went up to be bathed to wash her hair the other day. After she had wet her hair she reached behind her to the washstand and got a cake of soap and bathed the hair, giving it a very thorough lathering indeed. Then she closed her eyes lest the soap suds should get into them and kept them tight until she was ready for the last rinsing. Then she opened them and beheld her beautiful white hair had become a brilliant yellow.

She was horrified. Not until she happened to see the cake of soap she had used did she solve the mystery of its change and then she knew. She had used a cake of soap her grandmother had bought to dye her silk.

Doctor Liebknecht and his assistant, Rosa Luxemburg, appeared to the leaders of the mob, and by mob passions they met their own end, destroying the forces they had raised. This is a lesson which fanatics seem unable to learn.

Somebody is complaining because oil falls are up to $1.25 each, but there are others who are willing to pay to try as high as a buck if only oil-bath would roost low.

When they tell us the total wealth of the United States is $250,000,000, we suspect they are computing it on a basis of eggs at 55 cents a dozen and bacon and butter at 75 cents a pound.

Gen. March Helped Public Get War News Quickly

(By United Press)

New York April 23.—Gen. Peyton C. March, chief of staff of the U. S. Army was given great credit today for keeping the war news avenue open to the public, by Marlen E. Pew. Pew was the director of the war department news bureau during the war and has just returned to New York to resume his work as editor of the Editor and Publisher. In his position at Washington he was the chief channel whereby news from the war department reached the public and was in close touch with the entire censorship as affecting the civil power as an active editor of daily papers.

Discussing the censorship Pew said: "Nearly every army officer and newspaper correspondent I have talked with upon their return to Washington from the front have been in agreement as to the evil effects of censorship as affecting the civil population. The ancient code of secrecy as to military operations has been pretty well exposed as inefficient, and, in fact, reacting more against the nation subscribing to it than in the interest of the enemy. I vividly recall a conversation with a correspondent of the United Press early last summer upon his return from France, after having visited nearly every sector of the Western front and after four years' almost continuous attachment to the armies of both the Central Powers and the Allies. He had motored from New York to Washington and had inspected the tremendous Army, Navy and Shipping Board war production enterprises along the seaboard. He told me of his amazement at the scope of these diversified operations and exclaimed: 'I would to God that I had Ludendorff with me on that trip—Germany's war plans would collapse tomorrow.' Subsequent events, of course, proved that the war plans of the Central Powers did not take into account our tremendous scheme of war and that when Germany did understand our military potentiality, through contact with the advance operations of Pershing's forces, she capitulated.

"Censorship was trusted by the Allies, who were our military guides in this war, as a means of preventing the enemy from matching military plans and discounting them. There is, of course, an element of advantage in that, but it has always been a question with me whether this advantage was as important as the positive advantage of possessing the complete co-ordinated and faithful support of the civil population, which is only possible as the people understand the plans and issues of the war.

"As a matter of fact the liberality of our government as to military censorship has been unexampled in history. We were successful with the Voluntary Censorship—the newspapers were their own best censors, as far as they went. My own opinion is that they did not go far enough in the constructive sense, through publication of the tremendous scope and detail of our war production. On the other hand some damage was done through mistaken publicity. I have in mind such unauthorized and ridiculous publications as the demand for a hundred thousand planes, to blast Germany from the map. This was heroic talk, but it hurt the American interest. It was never dreamed of as a possibility. Some 40 men were required on the ground for every plane in the air, hence 100,000 planes would have required an army of 4,000,000 men at least. Plane production was new to us and highly experimental—it is today. If the same newspaper space that went for these absurd demands had been devoted to a recital of actual and potential war production civil morale would have been stiffened and if the matter had leaked by any channel into Germany, the effect would have caused consternation, rather than amusement, as the 100,000 planes story did, judging from the accounts of German newspapers sent out as propaganda by wireless from Nauern.

"The attitude of the War Department has been to conserve the principle of candor with the people, thru the press, except on news agreed upon as obviously of advantage to the enemy and real disadvantage to our war cause. For instance, it was plainly a mistake to publish troop movements overseas while the German U-boat campaign offered a possibility of use of such information, though how, with all our watchful care, such information could leak to the enemy has never been clear to me. However there was a chance in it and no one wished to sponsor such information, the newspapers included.

"The right of the people to know of the conduct of their business at Washington was met with the highest idealism by the Secretary of War. Never was there an instance when, so far as the people of the United States were concerned, he so much as remotely suggested the suppression of unfavorable news or the exaggeration of favorable news. Mr. Baker, however, did believe in censorship for purely military reasons, but was careful to weigh the value of such matter for advantage to the enemy as against the counter advantage which might accrue from a thorough understanding of the facts by the people of this country.

"Much is said of the 'Iron Silence' of military men—their devotion to the principle of secrecy. I have not encountered much of that among the high officials of our army. There is, for instance, no more ardent supporter of open dealing with the people through the press than Gen. Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff. He has often said, 'I believe wholly in the right of the people whose army it is, to know about their army.' For many years Gen. March held to the belief that the general attitude of military men toward censorship was erroneous and when he came into a position to practically apply the principle of candor he did so, with wholesome result. At stated intervals he met the newspaper men, talked freely to them, answered their questions and acted in every way to keep the lines open to the people. Young officers who through zeal attempted either to apply the press gag or to exploit the press for the disproportionate aggrandizement of their army branches, were easily dissuaded from that course through War Department orders.

"As a newspaper man who has been permitted to view the military side of the war operation at Washington it is a matter of the greatest pride that the highest class of journalism were met and conserved by the War Department and the army."

Looking Into The BUSINESS FUTURE

UNLESS you are the exceptional man, you are looking through the gate of the future into a business field of staggering immensity. For a time America must be purveyor to the world—herself supplying all that heretofore has been supplied by a half a dozen countries.

Whether it is shipped from Boston, Baltimore or Clearfield, YOU are a part of American Business. Are you ready to intensify, broaden and expand? Have you the capital?

Credit, in business, is capital. It is a production necessity. But before you can have credit at the bank you must DESERVE it and YOUR BANK MUST KNOW that you deserve it. Have a talk with the officers of the Clearfield National about bank credit and how it is built. This is a vital question—a reconstruction problem.

This Girl Sings Away Shellshock of Doughboy Patients Overseas

PAULA LIND AYERS

Administering doses of familiar American songs to shellshock patients in hospitals is the new job of Miss Paula Lind Ayers, formerly a concert singer in New York City. Now a Y.M.C.A. entertainer in France,

Miss Ayers' career as a song-ster began by accident. While touring a number of American camps to sing to the doughboys, she visited a base hospital one afternoon and sang to the patients in the various wards.

"No need to go in there," she was told, in front of one closed door. "The shellshock patients are in there. They are making so much noise that they probably wouldn't hear you."

"I should like to try, anyhow," she said. Before the end of Miss Ayers' first stanza, all but three or four of the worst cases had been quieted, and were listening to the song. By the time she had sung half a dozen songs, a few of the men were joining in the chorus. It was the first time that some of them had spoken since they had been stricken with shock.

After that, she visited the hospital daily, upon the request of the commanding officer, and went to the other hospitals in the region. Without exception it was found that the patients responded more readily to her singing than to almost any other treatment. Certain songs, Miss Ayers has discovered, appear to have a more beneficial effect than others.

"I have to begin with the softer, quieter melodies," she says. "Anything spirited or ragtime tends to frighten the men at first, just as any loud, sudden noise does. I start in with things like 'Just a Baby's Prayer at Twilight,' 'Little Lullaby,' 'Little Gray Home in the West,' and lullabies of any kind. As the boys' condition improves, we go on to other songs, and soon most of the patients are singing with me."

"I believe that in the colleges this sort of thing is called 'music therapy,' though I discovered it by accident. Some of the boys have had very little treatment except music, and are recovering fast."

Novel as this use of entertainment is, it is pronounced highly efficient by army officers, and one of them, besides commending Miss Ayers for her work, has ordered this "song treatment" for all the shellshock cases in his command. This is one reason why the "Y" has called for 375 more entertainers to go overseas. The hospitals need them almost as much as the theaters do.

and Ira McCloskey, deputy United States Marshal, served a warrant upon Kormanitzky and brought him to this city from where he was taken to the southbound D. R. & P. train this afternoon to Pittsburgh. It is understood that evidence sufficient to warrant his deportation is in the hands of the authorities and plans have been completed for sending him back to Russia.

RENEWED TESTIMONY

No one in Clearfield who suffers backache, headaches, or distressing urinary ail can afford to ignore this Clearfield woman's twice-told story. It is confirmed testimony that no Clearfield resident can doubt.

Mrs. John R. Confer, 1111 Dorey St., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and found them to be an excellent medicine for backache and kidney trouble. Another of my family has also used Doan's for distressing pains in the back and has derived benefit from their use. I have derived benefit from their use. I have nothing but the highest praise for Doan's and I am always glad to recommend them to others suffering from their kidneys. I bought his medicine at Woodward and McPherson's Drug Store" (Statement given Dec. 8, 1912).

LASTING BENEFIT
On Feb. 18 1919, Mrs. Confer said: "I haven't had to use Doan's Kidney Pills since I last recommended them in 1912. I still think highly of this medicine."

WILSON DECLARES AMERICA MUST STAND ON 14 POINTS AND REFUSE ITALY'S CLAIM

ITALIAN DELEGATE SAYS
ITALY WILL QUIT CONFERENCE

By CARL D. GROAT

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, April 23—"President Wilson's statement has broken up the peace conference," a member of the Italian delegation declared this afternoon.

The delegate said that Premier Orlando will leave for Rome tonight or on Friday and that the remainder of the delegates will go as quickly as possible thereafter. Orlando declined to comment on the President's statement beyond intimating that his removal might take the form of some definite action. This was interpreted as meaning possible withdrawal.

NO SPECIAL RULES FOR THE BALKAN SITUATION

UNDER ALTRUISTIC PRINCIPLES THE CITY OF FIUME MUST BE MADE AVAILABLE TO SMALL NATIONS

LATINS THREATEN SEPARATE PEACE

By FRED S. FERGUSON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, April 23—President Wilson issued a statement this afternoon declaring that America must stand by the principles it has already enunciated in making its decision regarding Italy's claims.

"A new set of principles cannot be established for the Balkans," he said. The President held that Fiume cannot be given but must be made available as a sea port for the small states behind her.

Wilson pointed out that conditions existing at the time the treaty of London was signed in 1915 have been altered by the dissolution of Austria-Hungary and the establishment of the new Balkan states. He insisted the peace conference must apply the principles established in the armistice. If those principles are to be adhered to Fiume must serve as an outlet for all the nations, Hungary, Bohemia, Roumania, Czechoslovakia and the status of the new Hugo-Slavia group.

"To assign Fiume to Italy would be to create a feeling that we had deliberately put the port upon which these countries chiefly depend for access to the Mediterranean in the hands of a government of which these nations do not feel an integral part and whose sovereignty would seem foreign rather than domestic." The President concluded by pointing out that the feeling of aggression existing at the time of the "Pact of London" signing is no longer dominating.

The dead lock in the Italian situation was declared by some delegates today to be worse than ever since the conference between Premier Lloyd George and Premier Orlando last night. The Italians are now intimating they will begin conversation with the Germans looking toward a separate peace. They indicate they expect to obtain coal from Germany and food from the Ukrainians instead of from Great Britain and America.

By ED. L. KEEN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, April 23—The Italians, encountering continued opposition from the Allies to their annexation program, were reported today to have threatened consummation of a separate peace with Germany. When Italy recently presented the virtual ultimatum it was hinted that if she actually broke up the peace conference the Allies would cut off her credit, food and fuel. The Italians have not met this implied threat by indicating that instead of depending upon Great Britain and America for supplies they will get coal from Germany and food from Ukraine.

TAKE STINGER OUT OF ALLIANCE BEE

(By United Press)

PARIS, April 23—While the peace delegates professed to disbelieve the existence of the reported Russo-German alliance, it was learned today the military terms of the treaty have been amended so as to prevent Germany from sending military instructors to other countries. This was expected to forestall any such entente as reported recently by the Warsaw correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph.

WRIGLEY-LYTLE NUPTIALS SOCIETY
EVENT OF INTEREST LAST EVENING

The home of Mr and Mrs. John W. Wrigley, on Front street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding last evening when their daughter Margaret Weber was united in marriage with Mr. Thomas Reilly Lytle. The ceremony was performed at 6:30 o'clock by Rev. M. A. Ryan of St. Francis church in the presence of more than two hundred friends of the high contracting parties.

As a prelude to the ceremony Mrs. Fairfax Funsten sang "Oh, Perfect Love." She was accompanied on the violin by Miss Annie Fenwick Wrigley, of Reno, cousin of the bride.

The wedding party entered the parlor to the pretty strains of "Lohengrin's wedding march" as rendered on the piano by Miss Martha Hames.

Eight friends of the bride, Misses Helen Dufton, Margaret Smith, Gertrude Bell, Helen Lytle, Josephine Tonner, Julia Miller, Agnes Fulford and Ethel Boyce formed an "aisle of tulle" for the bridal party.

The bride who was given away by her father, was attired in a white satin gown, embroidered in pearls, with a long court train falling from the shoulders. Her veil was a crown of rose point lace beaded in pearls and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids.

The bridesmaids were Miss Rebecca Smith, cousin of the bride, and Miss Valeria Clymer, of Riegelsville. Their dresses were of pink tulle and silver lace. They wore pink tulle bonnets with silver streamers and carried bouquets of roses.

The Matron of Honor, Mrs. Fairfax

Funsten of New York City, was attired in a beautiful gown of pink velvet and silver lace. She carried a bouquet of roses and snap dragons.

Mrs. John W. Wrigley, mother of the bride was attired in a beautiful gown of black satin, trimmed with white lace.

The best man was James Lytle, brother of the groom, while the groomsmen were William W. Wrigley, brother of the bride, John A. Lytle, brother of the groom, and H. O. Huttie, of Scottsdale, Pa.

The palatial Wrigley home was handsomely decorated in ferns, palms and lilies.

The gifts to the bridesmaids from the bride were pink ostrich fans. At the conclusion of the ceremony a sumptuous wedding supper was served, after which the bridal party left in automobiles for Tyrone where they took a main line train for Atlantic City, where they will spend their honeymoon.

The happy couple are among Clearfield's best known and popular young people. The bride, the only daughter of Mr and Mrs. Wrigley, is a charming and highly accomplished young lady possessing all the graces requisite to the ideal wife. Her husband is the senior member of the firm of Lytle Brothers, and one of Clearfield's most successful young business men. They start out in life with the brightest of prospects and The Progress joins with their legion of warm friends in wishing them health, wealth and the happiness of a long life together.

CLEARFIELD COUNTY WILL GET STATE
ROADS THIS YEAR
GUY LAWHEAD FIRST
CLEARFIELDER "OVER
THERE," HOME AGAIN

County Commissioners Dale and Spencer arrived home last evening from Harrisburg where they held a most satisfactory meeting with State Highway Commissioner Sadler and Chief Engineer W. D. Uhler, of the Highway Department. The Commissioners were informed by Commissioner Sadler that bids for the construction of two pieces of road in Brady, the stretch from Hyde City to Curwensville and a two mile piece near Bigler will be advertised for within a very few days or just as soon as the final preliminaries can be attended to.

In response to the telegram from last Thursday's Clearfield County Good Roads meeting Chief Engineer Uhler came to Clearfield Friday evening and on Saturday went over the route from Osceola to DuBois and made note of the obstructions which had been delaying the advertising for bids. These obstructions or holdups were six in number, three small property owners near Hyde City who refused to sign releases and the three crossings of the B. & P. railway between Hyde and DuBois.

The Highway Department decided that the fears of the Hyde City people as to possible damage were unfounded and need not be considered while the railroad crossings and bridges will be disposed of when encountered by the improvement.

This is certainly agreeable news and dispels the very natural suspicion that Clearfield county was liable to be overlooked in the Highway Department's distribution of roads to be built for this year.

In addition to the word regarding the through or trunk line route the Highway Department complimented the Commissioners on their action in deciding to construct the different sections agreed upon on the Bellefonte, Ebensburg and Mahaffey, Curwensville routes and stated that they would have a corps of State engineers at work on these improvements before the week is out, and the different pieces agreed upon by the Commissioners as per their program announced to the Good Roads Association.

casion meeting will also be built this year.

Guy Lawhead, who was not only in the van of the American forces going overseas to turn back the Hun but was the first Clearfield county boy to set foot on the soil of France following the declaration of war, arrived home at noon today and was received with joyful welcome by his family and host of friends.

Guy, who was a student at Allegheny College, Meadville when hostilities were declared at once enlisted in a Cleveland hospital unit and getting quick action on his money, arrived in France early in May of 1917.

He served throughout the war and had many thrilling and interesting experiences. He certainly looks hale and hearty and is overjoyed at getting back into the heart of the grandest old State in the union.

FOUR THOUSAND
CLEARFIELD PEOPLE
SEE WAR PICTURE

Over 4200 Clearfield people saw the government picture "The Price of Peace" at the Driggs theatre last evening and yesterday afternoon. All were enthusiastic over the film and many were heard to declare that they have a different attitude toward the Victory Liberty Loan after seeing the picture. Six months have elapsed since the signing of the armistice and the price of peace which our boys paid had seemingly almost passed from the memory of all those except the boys who helped to pay it. Seeing these pictures brings the scenes of carnage back to mind, helps us to recognize our duties and appreciate our brave men who have finished their job. The school children of the city saw the film yesterday afternoon and much credit is due our school management for the efficient and orderly manner in which the more than two thousand school children were marshalled and escorted to the theatre. There was an entire absence of confusion and all the pupils from the High school who knew how to march to the Junior High crusaders and the grade schoolers marched like veterans. Manager Driggs is deserving of the general thanks of the committee and the people for giving his theatre all afternoon and evening free of charge.

THREE BULLETS THRU CLOTHING

The friends of Sergeant Ralph A. Whiteman, who had such a narrow escape in the closing days of the war when in taking a German machine gun he received three bullets through his clothing and had a high explosive shell strike within a few feet of him without receiving any injury will be pleased to hear that his bravery in battle has been officially recognized in the War department by the following citation:

Headquarters 78 Division
March 17, 1919
General Order Number 6.

1. The Division Commander desires to record in the General Order of the 78th Division some of the deeds of men of this command which were marked by the display of the highest of soldierly qualities—initiative, dauntless courage, self sacrifice and steadfast devotion to duty which offered a constant inspiration to all who came to have knowledge thereof and which contributed largely in the aggregate to the success of the division's operations against the enemy.

2. Sergeant Ralph A. Whiteman, Co. D, 312 Infantry, while in charge of a platoon at Grand Pré, France, on the 18th of October, 1918, which became disorganized by snipers bullets and machine gun fire, reorganized the detachment by his example of daring and bravery in advancing under this fire with fearless disregard for his personal safety, and successfully led his men against the enemy machine gun, capturing same and bringing it back to our lines.

By command of
Major General McRae
H. A. COOTES,
Chief of Staff

Sergeant Whiteman is the third Clearfield boy to receive a citation for bravery. The first was Lester Carson, a member of Co. L, of the 111th or old Eighteenth National Guard, who was cited for bravery at Fismette, and Gunnery Sergeant Jack Barry, who earned his decoration as a member of the Fighting Fifth Marines at Blanc Mont.

He killed four of the enemy and captured the gun, thus allowing the company to continue forward.

TREATY TERMS BEING IRONED OUT SO AS TO BE READY ON TIME BUT HUNS WILL BE LATE ARRIVING

PREPARE FOR POSSIBLE TRICKERY

By WILLIAM PHILLIP SIMMS

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, April 23—The drafting committee is racing against time in an effort to complete the peace treaty before the German delegates arrive in Versailles. Several new members have been added to the committee. The conference is proceeding on the assumption that the Germans will arrive in Versailles on Saturday, April 26, although the latest reports indicated the delay caused by the change in the personnel of the delegation would result in the enemy representatives arriving not sooner than April 27.

The German government today asked the Allies for permission to send three delegates to Versailles immediately to discuss the conference has reached a point where the Allies must be against an attempt by the Germans at the eleventh hour to d'etat calculating to meet the Allies' arrangements. Plans have been completed however, to meet any contingency.

PAGE STARTED IN VICTORY LOAN
INDICATES SUCCESS FOR TASK

WASHINGTON, April 23—The Treasury officials today estimated the sale of Victory notes for the first two days of the campaign totaled $500,000,000. Incomplete reports received at noon told of a high total being rolled up in every federal reserve district. If the pace set for the first two days is maintained, officials said the minimum of $4,500,000,000 would be obtained without delay. An average of $250,000,000 daily must be obtained, however, "to finish the job" on time.

CLEVELAND, April 23—Victory Liberty loan subscription in the Fourth Federal Reserve district were estimated at $1,950,000 at noon today. Ohio, part of Pennsylvania West Virginia and Kentucky comprise the Fourth district. Its quota is $100,000,000.

His statement in Paris today declaring that America must stand by the principles he set forth—the 14 points—in adjusting the Adriatic problem, means the most serious crisis of the entire peace conference has been reached.

A SCARE-CROW DOES NOT GROW CORN BUT SAVES A LOT OF IT

It wasn't alone the boys that had gone across but the boys who were ready to go across, that won the war.

It wasn't simply the guns that were fired, the grenades that were exploded, and the gas that was let loose, but the doses we were preparing that licked the Boche.

The ships never launched, the planes that never flew, the guns on our docks, the wheat in the ground—helped to win.

Let's call it money well spent, bring the boys home, and pay the bill. You know what your share is in the Victory Loan—TAKE IT!

PROCLAMATION

I therefore recommend and urge the people of Clearfield to come out along the line of march to view the procession, and that all residences and business houses particularly on the line of parade, be decorated with flags and bunting, and that all traffic be kept off the streets from 7 to 8 o'clock.

The line of march will be as follows: Form on South Second street, corner of Walnut, march north on Second to Market, east on Market to Third, north on Third to Reed, west on Reed to Second south on Second to Market, east on Market and to the New Driggs Theatre.

SOLDIER PEDDLERS

We understand that some Washington War Department officials are trying to discourage peddling and street selling by men in uniform. Just what methods they are using is not made clear but it is not likely that it carries with it an effort to put these men back into their jobs or even back into productive labor of any kind. There are too many instances where there is nothing left for the discharged soldier but a street soliciting job. Meanwhile someone less worthy is holding the job the soldier ought to have. Possibly these injustices to the soldier are few and far between and are magnified by their very rarity. Nevertheless, one case is sufficient and it behooves everyone of us to take care of the returned soldier. He does not want praise, he does not want favor; he does not want anything in particular: we have not heard him complain, but he deserves employment at as good a job as he left.

In finding work for the returning soldiers consideration must be given to the character of their employment before they entered the army. Secretary Lane is entitled to credit for evolving his scheme of providing farm homes for the men on the unsettled lands of the West and South, but although the object he has in mind is a most worthy one it can scarcely be the success he predicts if it is adopted. Men who have spent their lives in cities are not going to forsake their old habits and acquaintances to move to the country. Nothing has occurred to them in their army life tending to change their normal method of living; on the contrary, the longer they have remained abroad the greater has been their longing for home. Whatever may have been a soldier's craving for adventure before the war it has been thoroughly satisfied by his life at the front and he thinks only of coming back to the familiar scenes of his earlier life.

THE VICTORY LIBERTY LOAN

The fighting is over, but the job isn't finished yet.

Our Army is in Germany keeping "The Watch on the Rhine."

They must be cared for there and brought back home.

We must furnish the money.

EIGHT-ROOM HOUSE OF MODERN DESIGN

Den, Breakfast Room and Sun Parlor
Features of This Economical Home of Wood Construction.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building. For the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority in all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 122 Franklin Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose three-cent stamp for reply.

Houses that are designed so that the builder will get the most for his money in number of rooms, convenience and arrangement and attractive exterior appearance are the kind that appeal to the prospective home owners this year. The features enumerated, are, of course, what every one wants to get when a house is planned, but many do not get them. However, architects who design houses of moderate cost for what might be termed the average American family have developed many features that help in attaining the ideal in dwelling construction.

An eight-room house, which contains many attractive features in interior arrangement and which can be erected at a moderate cost is shown in the accompanying illustration. The house is nearly square, which makes for economy in cost, but at the same time the sun parlor and side entrance break the straight lines and give it an attractive, comfortable and home-like appearance. The illustration shows this design in wood construction, but the house can be produced just as easily in brick and stucco. An alternate plan would show it with brick up to the second floor and stucco above. This is slightly more expensive than wood construction, but gives the house a distinctive appearance.

Spaciousness is a feature of the dining room as well as of the living room. It is 12 by 15 feet 6 inches. It, too, has an opening into the sun parlor. Having a corner exposure, there is room for two windows at the side and one in front, at the end of the sun parlor.

Back of the dining room, also on a corner, is the kitchen, but between the two rooms are features that will be appreciated by the woman who likes unusual conveniences. It will be noted that the architect has put in a breakfast nook on one side and a large dining and living room on the other.

Breakfast Room, Convenient. The breakfast nook is 5 feet 9 inches in width and has built-in seats and tables. Being but a step from the kitchen, this provides a convenient place for the children and other members of the family to have their breakfasts, without the trouble of setting the dining room table.

The kitchen is large and is designed for the installation of every convenience that makes the work easy in the kitchen.

commensurate comfortable chairs, bookcases and the tables that make such a room attractive. Windows on two sides permit plenty of light, but at the same time there is plenty of wall space for the bookcases. There also is a large closet off this room.

Much Closet Space Provided. Four bedrooms, each at a corner of the house, giving excellent ventilation, the bathroom, large enough for both tub and shower, and a nook at the head of the stairs are provided in the second floor. An exceptionally large amount of closet space also is given.

The two front bedrooms are 13 feet 9 inches by 14 feet 3 inches and the two rear bedrooms are 12 feet 9 inches by 12 feet 9 inches. Each opens off a large hall in the center of the house. The bath room is at one end of the hall and the nook, with built-in seats is at the other end. There is a closet in every room and an additional one off the hall.

The basement extends under the whole house and may be divided into as many rooms as the owner wants. The heating plant, especially, should be shut into a room of its own, to prevent heating the place used for the storage of food and to keep the dirt confined.

Building a home is a popular occupation this year. Thousands of persons, who during the last two years have been unable to build because of restrictions on building, are now planning to go ahead with their projects, and before fall arrives many will have their desire for a home of their own realized. For the family that is comparatively large and wants an attractive and convenient home, the plan submitted is excellent. Builders are competent to make such little changes in the design as the owner may want, but it always is a good idea to consult an architect. The small fee these experts charge is saved many times over in a house that is at all elaborate.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside, no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood while the bowel pores do, says a well known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach. Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless except a sourish tinge, which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins, also to prevent their formation. You feel like young folks feel; like you feel before your blood, nerves and muscles become saturated with an accumulation of body poisons. Begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Choose what you will, within the limits of reason, and by exercise of the average ability you possess you will in time reach your mark.—Marden.

SAVORY DISHES.

In all meat dishes the long slow cooking brings out all the flavor of the meat and makes it tender and more easily digested. Cooking in an earthen covered dish, called a casserole, is an ideal way of conserving flavor. The meat with vegetables may be put on to cook and in a moderate oven may be left for hours without any further attention. The crook may be set in the coals of a fire-place, in the ashpit under the heater or on the ledge of the furnace to cook.

Casserole of Lamb.—Take one and one-half pounds of the neck of lamb, wipe with a damp cloth and place in a casserole with two sliced carrots, six medium sized onions, three turnips cut in half, bouquet of soup herbs, one and one-half cups of water; cook for four hours, add dumplings and cook over the heat for ten minutes and serve.

Fried Apples.—Wash and core unpeeled apples and cook in a hot frying pan in a little sweet fat, when nearly done sprinkle with sugar and brown. Leaving the peeling on keeps the slices from breaking. Serve as a garnish to a platter of pork chops or sausage.

Puffy Crackers.—Split the Boston crackers and let them lie in ice water three or four minutes; they will be so water soaked that it will be necessary to use a pancake turner to remove them to a baking pan. Dot with bits of butter and put into a very hot oven; they will puff up and become crisp and delicious. If they are to be served with soup a little paprika may be sprinkled over them, or a little grated cheese.

Baked Egg Plant.—Dice and cut a small egg plant into dice, sprinkle with salt and let stand in a colander for one hour, then wash. Parboil until tender, drain and place in a bowl. Into a chopping bowl put two onions, one green pepper, four stalks of celery, two sprays of parsley and a bunch of thyme. Mince very fine and add two cups of cream sauce, one-half cup of bread crumbs and one and one-half teaspoons of salt, one teaspoonful of paprika and one-quarter of a teaspoon of mustard. Mix thoroughly and pour into a baking dish, cover with crumbs and cheese and bake thirty minutes.

She Washed Her Hair.

A Minnie grandmother went up to be bathed to wash her hair the other day. After she had wet her hair she reached behind her to the wash-basin and got a cake of soap and bathed the hair, giving it a very thorough lathering indeed. Then she closed her eyes lest the soap suds should get into them and kept them tight until she was ready for the last rinsing. Then she opened them and beheld her beautiful white hair had become a brilliant yellow.

She was horrified. Not until she happened to see the cake of soap she had used did she solve the mystery of its change and then she knew. She had used a cake of soap her grandmother had bought to dye her silk.

Doctor Liebknecht and his assistant, Rosa Luxemburg, appeared to the leaders of the mob, and by mob passions they met their own end, destroying the forces they had raised. This is a lesson which fanatics seem unable to learn.

Somebody is complaining because oil-baths are up to $1.25 each, but there are others who are willing to pay to try as high as a buck if only oil-baths would roost low.

When they tell us the total wealth of the United States is $250,000,000, we suspect they are computing it on a basis of eggs at 55 cents a dozen and bacon and butter at 75 cents a pound.

Gen. March Helped Public Get War News Quickly

(By United Press)

New York April 23.—Gen. Peyton C. March, chief of staff of the U. S. Army was given great credit today for keeping the war news avenue open to the public, by Marlen E. Pew. Pew was the director of the war department news bureau during the war and has just returned to New York to resume his work as editor of the Editor and Publisher. In his position at Washington he was the chief channel whereby news from the war department reached the public and was in close touch with the entire censorship as affecting the civil power as an active editor of daily papers.

Discussing the censorship Pew said: "Nearly every army officer and newspaper correspondent I have talked with upon their return to Washington from the front have been in agreement as to the evil effects of censorship as affecting the civil population. The ancient code of secrecy as to military operations has been pretty well exposed as inefficient, and, in fact, reacting more against the nation subscribing to it than in the interest of the enemy. I vividly recall a conversation with a correspondent of the United Press early last summer upon his return from France, after having visited nearly every sector of the Western front and after four years' almost continuous attachment to the armies of both the Central Powers and the Allies. He had motored from New York to Washington and had inspected the tremendous Army, Navy and Shipping Board war production enterprises along the seaboard. He told me of his amazement at the scope of these diversified operations and exclaimed: 'I would to God that I had Ludendorff with me on that trip—Germany's war plans would collapse tomorrow.' Subsequent events, of course, proved that the war plans of the Central Powers did not take into account our tremendous scheme of war and that when Germany did understand our military potentiality, through contact with the advance operations of Pershing's forces, she capitulated.

"Censorship was trusted by the Allies, who were our military guides in this war, as a means of preventing the enemy from matching military plans and discounting them. There is, of course, an element of advantage in that, but it has always been a question with me whether this advantage was as important as the positive advantage of possessing the complete co-ordinated and faithful support of the civil population, which is only possible as the people understand the plans and issues of the war.

"As a matter of fact the liberality of our government as to military censorship has been unexampled in history. We were successful with the Voluntary Censorship—the newspapers were their own best censors, as far as they went. My own opinion is that they did not go far enough in the constructive sense, through publication of the tremendous scope and detail of our war production. On the other hand some damage was done through mistaken publicity. I have in mind such unauthorized and ridiculous publications as the demand for a hundred thousand planes, to blast Germany from the map. This was heroic talk, but it hurt the American interest. It was never dreamed of as a possibility. Some 40 men were required on the ground for every plane in the air, hence 100,000 planes would have required an army of 4,000,000 men at least. Plane production was new to us and highly experimental—it is today. If the same newspaper space that went for these absurd demands had been devoted to a recital of actual and potential war production civil morale would have been stiffened and if the matter had leaked by any channel into Germany, the effect would have caused consternation, rather than amusement, as the 100,000 planes story did, judging from the accounts of German newspapers sent out as propaganda by wireless from Naumen.

"The attitude of the War Department has been to conserve the principle of candor with the people, thru the press, except on news agreed upon as obviously of advantage to the enemy and real disadvantage to our war cause. For instance, it was plainly a mistake to publish troop movements overseas while the German U-boat campaign offered a possibility of use of such information, though how, with all our watchful care, such information could leak to the enemy has never been clear to me. However there was a chance in it and no one wished to sponsor such information, the newspapers included.

"The right of the people to know of the conduct of their business at Washington was met with the highest idealism by the Secretary of War. Never was there an instance when, so far as the people of the United States were concerned, he so much as remotely suggested the suppression of unfavorable news or the exaggeration of favorable news. Mr. Baker, however, did believe in censorship for purely military reasons, but was careful to weigh the value of such matter for advantage to the enemy as against the counter advantage which might accrue from a thorough understanding of the facts by the people of this country.

"Much is said of the 'Iron Silence' of military men—their devotion to the principle of secrecy. I have not encountered much of that among the high officials of our army. There is, for instance, no more ardent supporter of open dealing with the people through the press than Gen. Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff. He has often said, 'I believe wholly in the right of the people whose army it is, to know about their army.' For many years Gen. March held to the belief that the general attitude of military men toward censorship was erroneous and when he came into a position to practically apply the principle of candor he did so, with wholesome result. At stated intervals he met the newspaper men, talked freely to them, answered their questions and acted in every way to keep the lines open to the people. Young officers who through zeal attempted either to apply the press gag or to exploit the press for the disproportionate aggrandizement of their army branches, were easily dissuaded from that course through War Department orders.

"As a newspaper man who has been permitted to view the military side of the war operation at Washington it is a matter of the greatest pride that the highest class of journalism were met and conserved by the War Department and the army."

Looking Into The BUSINESS FUTURE

UNLESS you are the exceptional man, you are looking through the gate of the future into a business field of staggering immensity. For a time America must be purveyor to the world—herself supplying all that heretofore has been supplied by a half a dozen countries.

Whether it is shipped from Boston, Baltimore or Clearfield, YOU are a part of American Business. Are you ready to intensify, broaden and expand? Have you the capital?

Credit, in business, is capital. It is a production necessity. But before you can have credit at the bank you must DESERVE it and YOUR BANK MUST KNOW that you deserve it. Have a talk with the officers of the Clearfield National about bank credit and how it is built. This is a vital question—a reconstruction problem.

This Girl Sings Away Shellshock of Doughboy Patients Overseas

Administering doses of familiar American songs to shellshock patients in hospitals is the new job of Miss Paula Lind Ayers, formerly a concert singer in New York City. Now a Y.M.C.A. entertainer in France.

Miss Ayers' career as a song-ster began by accident. While touring a number of American camps to sing to the doughboys, she visited a base hospital one afternoon and sang to the patients in the various wards.

"No need to go in there," she was told, by one of the closed doors. "The shellshock patients are in there. They are making so much noise that they probably wouldn't hear you."

"I should like to try, anyhow," she said. Before the end of Miss Ayers' first stanza, all but three or four of the worst cases had been quieted, and were listening to the song. By the time she had sung half a dozen songs, a few of the men were joining in the chorus. It was the first time that some of them had spoken since they had been stricken with shock.

After that, she visited the hospital daily, upon the request of the commanding officer, and went to the other hospitals in the region. Without exception it was found that the patients responded more readily to her singing than to almost any other treatment. Certain songs, Miss Ayers has discovered, appear to have a more beneficial effect than others.

"I have to begin with the softer, quieter melodies," she says. "Anything spirited or ragtime tends to frighten the men at first, just as any loud, sudden noise does. I start in with things like 'Just a Baby's Prayer at Twilight,' 'Little Lullaby,' 'Little Gray Home in the West,' and lullabies of any kind. As the boys' condition improves, we go on to other songs, and soon most of the patients are singing with me."

"I believe that in the colleges this sort of thing is called 'music therapy,' though I discovered it by accident. Some of the boys have had very little treatment except music, and are recovering fast."

Novel as this use of entertainment is, it is pronounced highly efficient by army officers, and one of them, besides commending Miss Ayers for her work, has ordered this "song treatment" for all the shellshock cases in his command. This is one reason why the "Y" has called for 375 more entertainers to go overseas. The hospitals need them almost as much as the theaters do.

and Ira McCloskey, deputy United States Marshal, served a warrant upon Kormanitzky and brought him to this city from where he was taken to the southbound D. R. & P. train this afternoon to Pittsburgh. It is understood that evidence sufficient to warrant his deportation is in the hands of the authorities and plans have been completed for sending him back to Russia.
